Conciliatory approach

While visiting survivors of last week's heinous attack on coalminers in Duki, Balochistan Chief Minister Sarfaraz Bugti said on Saturday that a military operation was not on the cards in the troubled province. He added that intelligencebased operations were "ongoing" to uncover the facts behind the atrocity.

Though a variety of militant groups active are in Balochistan, till date no one has claimed responsibility for the Duki massacre. While there is surely a need to neutralise violent elements that present a danger to public safety in the province, the fact is that militarised responses to terrorism and insurgency have been tried in Balochistan for decades, but have failed to bring permanent peace to this tora sincere commitment to tured land.

Therefore, there is a need to investigate the intelligence lapses that led to the Duki terrorist attack and earlier violent episodes, while kinetic responses can only work if there are complementary political and economic efforts to address the deprivation that fuels separatmageddon ist sentiment.

However, it appears the state is determined to continue using the same old playbook against voices peacefully demanding their rights in Balochistan. In this respect, a terrorism and sedition case has been filed against rights activist Dr Mahrang Baloch for her alleged "anti-state campaign". Perplexingly, the case has been on Oct 22-24. Russia has prompted the comments,

Italy's Meloni plans Lebanon visit, seeks security guarantees for troops

Monitoring Desk ROME: Italian Prime Minister Giorgia Meloni said on Tuesday she plans to visit Lebanon and called for security guarantees for her country's troops there after UN peacekeepers came under fire during the Israel-Hezbollah conflict.

Italy has over 1,000 troops deployed in the UN peacekeeping mission known as the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL). It also has troops in a separate mission known as MIBIL which trains local armed forces in Lebanon.

The UN Security Council expressed concern on Monday after several UN peacekeeping positions came under fire in southern Lebanon and urged all parties - without naming them - to respect the safety and security of timing of her trip.

coordination to NATO may have a limited effect given that the US is NATO's dominant power and provides the majority of arms to Ukraine.

Speaking in one of 12 een tents that house SATU as it is built up, Rutte earlier on Monday addressed allied troops from more than a dozen nations already working on the mission that will, at a later stage, move into a nearby hangar and be complemented Ukrainian troops. NSATU is expected to have a total strength of some 700 personnel, including troops stationed at NATO's military headquarters SHAPE in Belgium and at logistics hubs in Poland and Romania. The Wiesbaden base is also home to the US unit in charge of long-range missiles that Washington will deploy to Germany temporarily from 2026, to counter what both countries describe as a threat posed by Russian missiles stationed as close as Kaliningrad, some 500 kilometres (311 miles) from Berlin.

On his first visit to Germany as NATO chief, Rutte welcomed the step that has been denounced as a provocation by Russia and sparked a heated debate in Chancellor Olaf Scholz's Social-Democrat Party.

Miners in Duki protest after death of fellow workers

QUETTA (INP): In the wake of a tragic incident that claimed the lives of 21 health miners, workers at coal mines in Duki have staged protests, halting operations in a show of solidarity and demand for safety.

The protests erupted after a shooting incident at the mines, leading to calls for the immediate arrest of the assailants. The miners have voiced their concerns regarding inadequate security measures, insisting that they will continue their demonstrations until their safety is guaranteed.

We will not resume work until our protection is ensured," stated a representative of the protesting miners, highlighting the severe risks they face in the current environment.
